

Florida Senator Proposes Vote To Fill Supreme Court Posts

Requests Experience Of Five Years

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—Sen. Smathers (D-Fla.) proposed today that Congress pass a law requiring that all future appointees to the Supreme Court have at least five years of prior experience on the bench.

He said Supreme Court members should be trained and experienced jurists, and that "men who wish to determine policy and legislate should seek endorsement of their views from the people by running for office."

In his statement, Smathers made no reference to the Supreme Court's unanimous 1954 decision outlawing segregation in public schools, but the bill he proposed seemed to reflect the protests he and other Southerners have made against this and other recent rulings of the court.

Manifesto

Smathers was among 101 Southern Congress members who issued a manifesto attacking the court's decision in the school case as an abuse of judicial power and pledging to use all lawful means to upset it.

Smathers said that when the Senate meets tomorrow noon, he will introduce a bill to require five years of court experience—on the federal bench or a state supreme court—for all future Supreme Court justices.

The only member of the present court who could qualify under such a law is Justice Minton. Two other justices, Harlan and Black, also had court experience before their elevation to the Supreme Court but not the five years proposed by Smathers.

In a statement prepared for delivery in the Senate, Smathers said his measure would take the appointment of Supreme Court justices "out of the political arena."

"The Supreme Court," he said, "should not be a refuge for appointees drawn from the ranks of politicians, professors or friends of the influential."

Maintaining that Congress has authority to set requirements for appointees to the court, he said, "The Constitution did not create the Supreme Court; it merely provides for its existence. It was left up to Congress to put the court into being."

Hitler Feared Being 'Model'

CAMP FRIEDLAND, Germany, April 29 (AP)—Hitler's personal aide returned from a Communist prison camp tonight and said the Nazi Fuehrer had feared if he were captured by the Russians "he would be exhibited in Moscow as a wax model."

"That is one of the reasons he committed suicide," said SS Maj. Otto Guensche, Hitler's adjutant. Guensche was one of 43 German war criminals who arrived at this POW repatriation center today from East Germany where he and several hundred others have been held since their return from Russia last December.

Wax Museum

He said Hitler revealed a dread of winding up in a wax museum shortly before he killed himself. Guensche confirmed earlier reports of how Hitler shot himself and how Eva Braun, his wife of one day, swallowed poison exactly 11 years ago tomorrow in a Berlin bunker.

"I personally carried Eva Braun's body out of the bunker," Guensche said in an interview. "Three other men carried out Hitler's body. We soaked them with gasoline and set fire to them. We were in a hurry. The Russians were nearing the chancellery."

There was no indication these incidents would have any effect on Hammarskjold's mission.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman in Jerusalem said Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett had complained to Hammarskjold about the incidents. Sharett called them "acts of renewed Egyptian aggression during the past 12 hours."

Body

The spokesman said the kidnapped Israeli's mutilated body was returned to an Israeli member of the Mixed Armistice Commission by an Egyptian member.

The spokesman added that evidence obtained by a commission investigation disclosed several Egyptian soldiers had entered the Nahal Oz area today and started illegal harvesting. According to this account, a 22-year-old member of the Israeli farming community rode on horseback toward the Egyptians, was attacked, and dragged across the border.

New Incidents Reported Along Borders Of Israel

CAIRO, Egypt, April 29 (AP)—U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold conferred tonight with Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser and other high Egyptian officials on restoring peace to the troubled Arab-Israeli borders.

The meetings reportedly were devoted to discussion of frontier arrangements which might help prevent friction.

Egypt and Israel have agreed to a cease-fire but Hammarskjold is awaiting final pledges from Lebanon, Syria, and Jordan. These three countries have given tentative pledges to observe a cease-fire.

The U. N. secretary general met with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi before talking with Nasser. As the conference proceeded, the first incidents in several days were reported along Israel's borders. As usual, accounts from the two sides differed.

Listing three incidents, an Israeli army spokesman in Jerusalem said an Israeli soldier was killed and two wounded when their vehicle was blown up by a recently laid mine inside Israeli territory near Nir Izhak settlement close to the Gaza Strip.

Kidnapping

Near Nahal Oz, an Israeli settler was kidnapped and carried across the demarcation line into the Gaza Strip by infiltrators who had crossed into the settlement fields, the Israeli spokesman charged.

He said the third incident was caused by infiltrators near the Jordan border who damaged a water well in the Lachish area.

The Egyptian version of what appeared to be the alleged kidnapping was that an Israeli policeman, carrying a revolver and grenades, made a one-man invasion of the Gaza Strip and attacked Egyptian guards and farmers. An Egyptian military spokesman at Gaza said the Israeli was killed and that Egypt had complained to the Is-

Representatives Hurl Charge At Commerce Department

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—A Democratic-controlled House subcommittee said today some businessmen exploited unpaid federal posts to help their own industries. It accused the Commerce Department of trying to hinder an investigation.

Hydrogen Bombs Now Small Size

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—The Air Force has told Congress that hydrogen bombs "light and handy enough" to be packed into the warheads of ocean-spanning missiles are a certainty.

This official disclosure of what was described as a major scientific breakthrough was made in testimony before a House Appropriations subcommittee on Air Force Affairs by Maj. Gen. S. R. Brentnall, assistant chief of staff for guided missiles.

In testimony made public today, Brentnall said that the "advent of lightweight high-yield warheads" has simplified many technical problems and "insured that thermonuclear explosives would be light and handy enough to be carried by long-range missiles of reasonable size."

Held Back

He said the Air Force had been held back in the development of long-range missiles for many years because the warheads had to be of such large size to hold the nuclear payload that guidance, propulsion and design problems were beyond the capabilities of engineers.

He described the success in packing the hydrogen bomb into a small space as a breakthrough that changed the nature of scientific war by simplifying the development of a usable, long-range ballistic missile.

Gen. Brentnall also disclosed, in the heavily censored version of the hearings made public, that the Air Force has a definite schedule of development for its long-range missiles. He said the missiles will succeed on schedule because of assurances from eminent scientists that the missile problems will be solved on time.

Area Woman Missing From Norse Freighter

ALLENTOWN, April 29 (AP)—Relatives of Mrs. Katherine Penning, 74, of nearby Hellertown, who vanished from a Norwegian freighter in the Mediterranean last week, today sought more details of her disappearance.

Mrs. Penning, mother-in-law of atom scientist J. Robert Oppenheimer of Princeton, N. J., was sailing from New York City to Venoa, Italy, on the Concordia Fjord.

Passport Found

She disappeared last Monday or early Tuesday when the ship was off Spain and about a day out of Genoa. Her passport was found in her empty cabin.

She was officially listed as missing at sea. Italian Official Hurt ROME, April 29 (AP)—Italian Finance Minister Giulio Andreotti was injured slightly and 10 persons were taken to a hospital today when a stage caved in after an election speech.

Administration Worried Over Aid Progress

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 29 (AP)—Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. said today the present world situation requires the United States to channel a large share of its foreign aid through the United Nations.

In meeting the challenge of the new Soviet competition, he said, such a move would offer "some real advantages over a program sponsored by the United States alone."

"Multilateral aid," Lodge added, "offers a way to prevent the so-called auction which some are trying to promote between the United States and the U.S.S.R. as to which will spend the most in an underdeveloped country."

The chief U. S. delegate outlined his views in an exclusive statement when asked about the current reappraisal of the foreign aid program now under way in Washington. His statement was the strongest indication to date that the Eisenhower administration might divert substantial amounts of economic aid through the U.N.

Concerned

It had been known, however, the administration was concerned both by the stepped-up program of Communist economic aid and by increasing criticism of the U. S. bilateral aid program.

Asian leaders, such as Indian Prime Minister Nehru, have been pressing more and more for a new emphasis on multilateral programs particularly those of the U.N. technical assistance program and the proposed Special U.N. Fund for Economic Development.

Up to now the United States, although the major supporter of the U.N. aid program, has channeled only a tiny segment of its foreign aid through this medium. Russia has given little more than token contributions.

Example

The United States, for example, gave 15½ million dollars toward the 1956 U. N. technical assistance program in comparison with 153 million dollars spent on its bilateral Point Four program. This is approximately 10 per cent of the United States technical assistance expenditures, but is less than one per cent of the total $1,681,000,000 appropriated for the entire U. S. program for nonmilitary foreign aid.

Russia contributed nothing to the U. N. aid program until 1953 and since then has given only about one million dollars a year.

Flood Opposes Action Taken By Air Force

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—Rep. Flood (D-Pa.) says the Air Force used money Congress gave it for cargo planes "to buy 73 DC6s and push them up."

Flood made the statement at a closed hearing of the House Appropriations Committee last month. The hearing record was made public today.

Saying he had voted for a certain number of transport aircraft for combat troops, Flood declared:

Report

"Now I found out, if I am right, that you have pushed them up with beautiful latrines—if a latrine can be beautiful—and steel kitchens and plush seats."

Flood said he doubted such features could be removed from the planes on short notice and added, "I think we are short on transport aircraft to begin with."

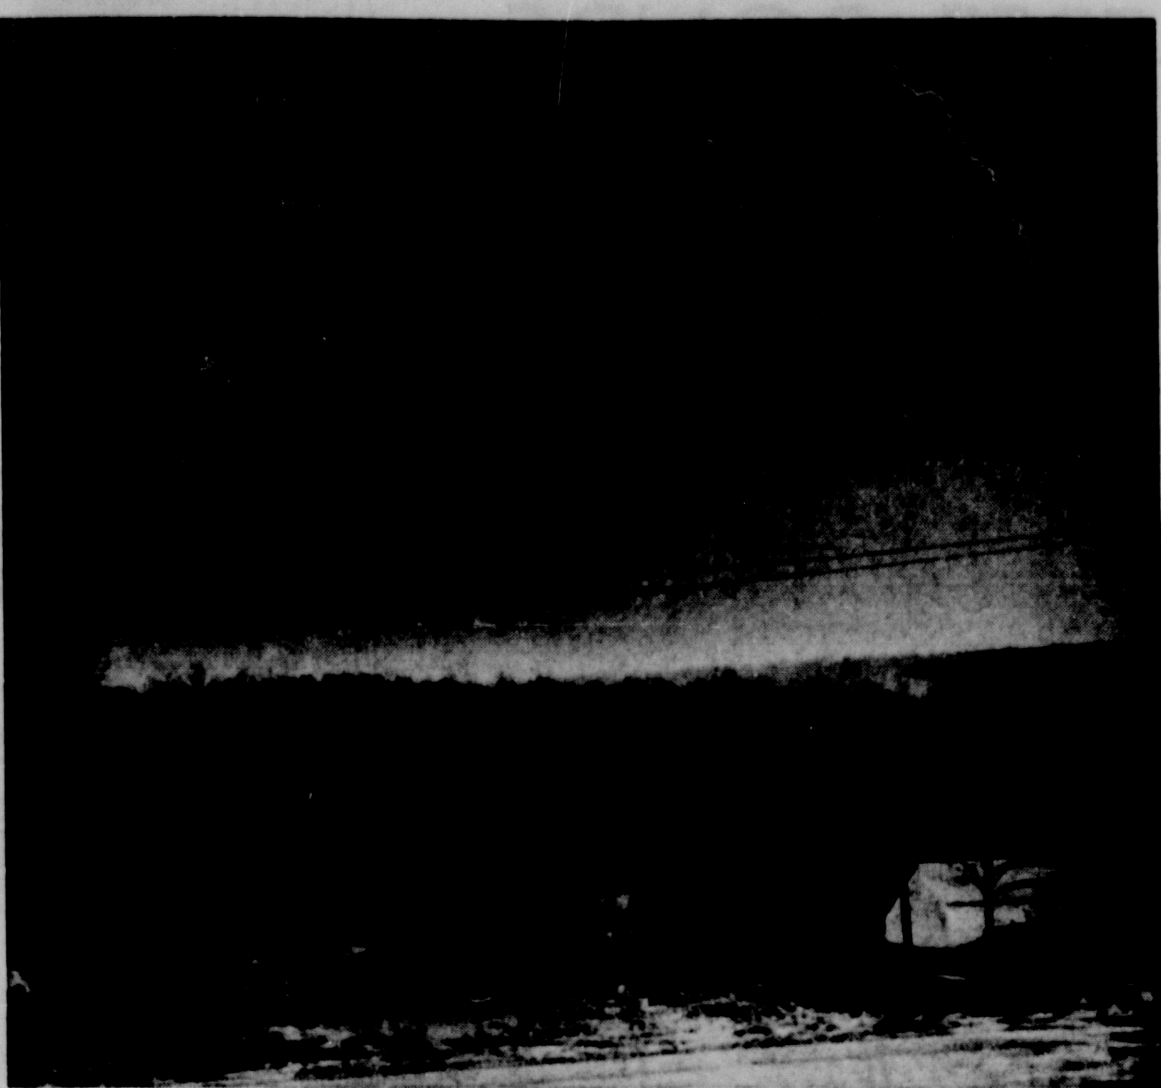

The Air Force said the planes could be converted within four hours. Maj. Gen. F. A. Bogart, director of the budget for the Air Force, said he believed the service originally had sought C124s, partly for troop carriers and partly for the Military Air Transport Service.

"Later on, the improved DC6s became available and were better aircraft to meet the MATS mission, and... part of the C124s were switched over," Bogart said.

Two Women Die In Accident

WAYNE TOWNSHIP, N. J., April 29 (AP)—Two panic-stricken women who couldn't be pulled from an auto stopped astride a railroad track were killed early today when an on-rushing freight train mangled the car.

As the train approached, the husband of one woman tried in vain to pull the two to safety while another man tried to flag down the train. But it could not stop in time.

LIGHT ON AN EERIE LANDSCAPE—Last night's frenzied thunderstorm brought rain to Monroe County. It also brought with it more than its share of heat and chain lightning. In this unusual photograph, Record cameraman Rod MacLeod caught two prominent bolts of lightning in mid air; illustrated the macabre lighting effects lightning can produce on objects below. Thunderstorm Crashes Into Scranton Area

SCRANTON, Pa., April 29 (AP)—A severe thunderstorm hit this area tonight and knocked out electrical power in the state's fourth largest city.

Lightning struck the steeple of a church in nearby Duryea shortly after evening services began starting a small fire which was quickly extinguished. No one was hurt.

All four television stations in the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre area were off the air about an hour and a half. It was believed that lightning hit one of the main transformers of the Scranton Electric Co.

Center

One Duryea policeman said two thunderstorms approached the mountainside community of 6,700, eight miles south of Scranton, and "seemed to center right over the town."

The heavy rain accompanying the storm backed up sewers and water on the streets rose to as much as four or five feet.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Pittsburgh issued a tornado alert but canceled it several hours later.

The alert was issued to cover the period from 3 p. m. to 7 p. m. In cancelling the alert, the bureau warned that showers and scattered severe thunderstorms "will continue until early Monday morning."

GETTYSBURG, April 29 (AP)—The first defense witnesses will be called to testify tomorrow in the murder trial of George W. Gingsell, 42, a quarry owner of nearby Fairfield R.D. 2.

General Assembly To Resume

HARRISBURG, April 29 (AP)—The General Assembly opens the 17th month of the long 1955-56 session this week with some hope—but not too much—of adjourning finally by May 12.

Both branches come back to work Tuesday after a recess for the April 24 primary election but leaders expect to get together Monday on amendments to the state's 3 per cent sales tax law.

Heavy Rain Pelts Monroe County

A VIOLENT ELECTRICAL STORM swept into the Poconos last night on the heels of a beautiful Sunday morning and afternoon.

Neal S. Rote, the telephone company's local wire chief, said the storm knocked some 400 stations out of order. The disruptions primarily were centered in the Stroudsburgs.

Local maintenance crews were to be put to work making repairs just as soon as the lightning let up last night, Rote said.

Some disruptions to electrical service were reported in the area, although none were serious.

Slight Rise

Meanwhile, police at the Milford-Montague Bridge reported that the Delaware River had risen only a foot-and-a-quarter during the day. And the officers said the greater part of the rise occurred between 7-10 last night.

The rains also pelted the Bangor-Pen Argyl area, but there was not too much lightning there. And no power interruptions were reported in that area.

Brodheads Creek, in the vicinity of Penn-Hills Lodge, was reportedly up about four feet shortly before midnight. But there was no immediate danger.

Meanwhile, Swiftwater Creek was said to be up six or seven inches at that same time. There was no report of trouble in the Canadensis area.

Eight Killed In Pennsylvania

EIGHT persons were killed over the weekend on Pennsylvania highways clogged with motorists enjoying the first really warm weekend of the spring.

One man was electrocuted in another accident.

By The Associated Press

Rep. Albert S. Readinger, Democratic floor leader, said efforts would be made to put the sales tax revisions to a final vote in the House on Wednesday.

Progress

Readinger said the prospects for final adjournment on May 12 would depend largely upon the progress made on legislation still hanging fire.

Weatherman Unleashes Varied Attack

By The Associated Press

WET, COLD, miserable weather plagued a big portion of the nation Sunday.

Snow pelted the northern Midwest. Thunderstorms moved across the Mississippi and Ohio Valleys toward New England and the Middle Atlantic States.

A tornado skipped through a 250-person rural community near Helena, Ark., demolishing a cotton gin, three tenant houses and ripping the roof off a school gymnasium. No injuries were reported.

By Sunday night, thunderstorms spread to the vicinity of New York City, and southward along the Appalachians to northern Florida.

The snow belt moved eastward into Michigan.

A flash flood broke through a levee out surrounding farms in northeast Missouri, inundating crops.

Welcome

The rain was welcomed by farmers in some other Midwest areas. In downstate Illinois the additional moisture was needed for delayed corn plantings, expected to start this week.

Threats of tornadoes in Indiana and Ohio failed to materialize.

Snow averaging 2 to 5 inches in depth fell along a narrow band from extreme northwest Iowa through southern Minnesota and central Wisconsin. Ten inches of snow was reported at Wausau, Wis. Eighteen inches of hail peppered an area south of Oklahoma City.

During the night a tornado hit near Farmington, Mo., after a series of minor twisters in Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska Saturday.

Hope Best Weapon In Cancer Fight

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the seventh and final story in a series on "Seven Hope Cases" in Monroe County, pointing to the fact that cancer can be cured through early diagnosis and early treatment. The stories of these seven men and women are typical of thousands all over America today. The names of patients have been changed.

by Leonard Randolph
HOPE IS OUR greatest weapon against cancer today.

And Fear is our deadliest enemy. A few years ago one Monroe County woman almost lost her life because she was afraid to face the reality of cancer.

Thanks in equal part to a doctor with common sense and the education program of the American Cancer Society, she is still alive. And she's lost her fear toward cancer.

No one can say with accuracy how many men and women have died because they refused to accept one simple truth. The truth is that cancer can be cured. It must be found early. Treatment must begin—either by surgery, by radium applications or by X-ray—immediately.

But the urgency of getting needed treatment does not alter the fact that the disease is curable.

Nothing New
Fear is nothing new, of course. In the war on disease, a century ago terror paralyzed whole communities at the mention of the "white plague." Slowly and with painstaking objectivity, science and medicine began to educate men and women that tuberculosis was being conquered, that one day it would be a minor factor on the scale of death-dealing disease.

Among other disease, fear had played an equally deadly role. In thousands of cases, fear has collected a debt of death through delay in diagnosis, in treatment and proper care. Nearly always the roots of fright and despair can be traced to misunderstanding.

This was true, certainly, in Marian's case.

Marian came from a small community in Monroe County. Clustered together in a clump of beautiful hills, the houses were like communications centers. The buzz of whispered messages, largely unencouraged by any single, central source, kept the community well-informed on matters of no consequence.

At 51, Marian had become an integral part of the mass information system. She knew nearly everything the night it happened. Some things she—and most of the others—"knew" before they occurred.

Like most persons Marian never realized that the many-headed monster she helped create would some day breathe its fire back at her—and that she would be nearly helpless against it.

It happened this way.

In her 51st year, Marian was one year past menopause. She had suffered no serious illnesses in her life. For this reason she had seen a doctor only a half-dozen times. Marian's family had never believed much in doctors.

One Doctor
Most of her life, Marian had known only one physician. He was an elderly man. And in Marian's 50th year, he had died at the age of 79. Before he died a "new" doctor came into the community to establish a practice. Partly because of the community's size, partly because of the resistance to new persons, his practice stayed small. His wife was blond, and young and pretty. And that was no help either.

Marian had gone through change of life very well. There had been (Please turn to Page 7)

OFF MIKE

by Joe Whalen

In 1951 Wyckoff's were in need of a substitute for their fifteen minute show at 9:45 in the morning. Management had decided that they would like a program at this time for their pre-Christmas broadcasts. The problem, of course, was who would handle the show. Madalyn Maloney was then penning a column in The Daily Record and was asked to accept this added responsibility through the holiday season. Madalyn took the job and has been working the longest holiday recorded... she's now into her fifth year with no signs of letting up.

The Wyckoff Shopper program is only one of many duties that keeps this mother of three busy. Her official job at Wyckoff's is Director of Personnel. On top of this she still writes the Shopper column for this newspaper.

Mrs. Maloney has been in or around this type of work for most of her adult life. She wrote the first social column to appear in the Record back in the 30s. (There will be no more references to dates. After all, Madalyn is a woman and you know how the ladies feel about that age thing!) After directing the layout of the written social doings for nine years, the Wyckoff Shopper left her post only to return to the local department store in 1951 to resume her writing chores as they appear in this newspaper today.

Of all her sundry duties, she tells us, radio broadcasting is one of her favorites. She especially relishes a show with many guests who present interesting histrionics from life. When pressed for her most unique program, The Shopper said, last year's coverage of the arrival of Santa Claus. By the way, fellow sponsors wherever you may be... Madalyn reports fine commercial, as well personal, satisfaction from her shows. In fact, she paraphrased a statement used in another popular medium... RADIO is better than ever.

PROGRAM NOTES:... with the arrival of May and daylight time, WVPO picks up an hour and a half this month. We'll be on the air until 8:15... Sports Desk moves to the 6:45 slot to be heard there throughout the summer... Musical Scoreboard will continue on until 6:00 with news to follow... at 7:05 Bill Staples sits betwixt the turntables for Club 840 until sign off at 8:15... could be profitable for you to keep the radio tuned to 840 most of the day. Lucky Bucks started this week... which means there are 10 chances every day for you to win between $25.00 and $500.00 if your buck matches our buck number... check the sports page of this paper daily when you're interested in what game is coming up in the afternoon.

Flames Sweep Over Eight Acres In Stokes Mill Section

Fire Also Hits Property In Stroudsburg

STROUD TOWNSHIP firemen worked for an hour Saturday to control a fire which burned over eight-acres off Stokes Mill Rd. and King St.

Firemen said the blaze broke out about 4 p. m. because of careless burning of rubbish. Nearby dwellings were not endangered.

Meanwhile, Stroudsburg volunteers were called to the Pocono Shoe Factory on Greer Ave. at 1:40 p. m., Saturday.

Rubbish Fire

Fire Chief Millard Marsh said a rubbish fire got out of hand. A window frame in the building was scorched when the fire burned a pile of debris stacked against the structure.

District Forester E. Clyde Pyle reported about eight to 10 acres were burned over in Bushkill over the weekend.

Close Games Mark Chess Club Meeting

STROUDSBURG Chess Club session last week was marked by the best attendance in months. Long games were in order.

An interesting feature was provided by the two most active mountain members, Edward Bosman and A. J. Vlossak. Canadensis and Mount Pocono respectively. They played a special series of five games, three of which were won by Bosman and two by Vlossak.

Vlossak beat Louis Mondelle, East Stroudsburg, two games. The Mount Pocono player was defeated in one strenuous game by Harold James, Stroudsburg. James, in turn, bowed in defeat before Joseph Kushner the club star.

Frank Merwarth, one of the club's highest ranking players, introduced a new member, Richard Sprague.

First Opponent

He drew William P. Deering as his first opponent and was defeated by the latter after a lengthy contest. He was then taken on by Earl Weiss one of the club's seasoned players, who also, defeated the new member.

Merwarth, sponsor for the new member, staged a lengthy session with James. The latter beat Merwarth one game but lost three consecutive engagements.

Mitchell Stackhouse, one of the original members of the club, trounced John M. Price, Club president, in two strenuous struggles. Bosman, too, won two games, defeating Deering in three engagements. He also defeated Mondelle in one game and Weiss also in one game.

Mondelle defeated Deering in three straight games. In "extra curricular" sessions at the week end, Bosman and Deering played three sessions. Deering took the first and Bosman the other two. Deering and Joseph Michaels devoted three hours to two games, each player winning one.

In a Saturday night session Deering and Mondelle met again the former beating the ex-marine in two games. He also defeated Michaels in the same number of engagements. Mondelle took consolation in defeating Harold James one game. He also met another former marine, Jack Wergo of Metuchen, N.J., readily defeating the Jerseyman.

Loan Limits For Farms Increased

LOAN LIMITS for the purchase, development, enlargement or improvement of farms have been increased by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

According to Frank Orendo, county supervisor for the Farmers for Monroe County was increased from $12,000 to $18,000; Carbon County, $12,000 to $16,000; Lehigh County, $14,500 to $20,000; and Northampton County, $15,000 to $20,000.

A farm on which a loan is to be made must be large enough and productive enough when purchased, enlarged or developed, to enable the operator to earn a good living, pay operating expenses, taxes, insurance, and meet other obligations while paying for it. The farm should be a family-type farm; that is, a place which the family can normally operate without full time outside help.

Limitation

Orendo also said that loans are made only to those applicants who are unable to get adequate credit from other sources. The Farmers Home Administration Committees also must decide, on the basis of character, experience, ability, industry and financial resources whether the applicant is likely to be successful in the farming business.

Loans for farm purchase, farm enlargement, and farm development are made for 40 years. Loans for building improvement, new construction and soil and water conservation are made for 5, 10, 15, 20, 25 or 40 years. Loans can be fully repaid at any time. The interest rate is 4 1/2% on the unpaid balance.

These farm loans are secured only by a first real estate mortgage on the farm. When necessary, the loan will include money to refinance any mortgage debt already owed.

Loans may also be obtained for essential livestock and equipment, farm and home operating expenses, and emergency credit needs.

Ann Hogan, 42, of Scranton, received contusions of the right elbow, and Barbara Marie Tierney, 14, of Stroudsburg, RD 2, contusions of the left knee. Both were discharged after treatment at the General Hospital.

Naughton was traveling north about 5:30 p. m., when his car skidded on the wet highway, ran off the right side of the road and crashed into the embankment, State Police said. Damage to the vehicle was estimated at some $350.

State To Receive Bids On Bridges; House Passes Federal Highway Bill

Two news stories of intense interest in the Poconos broke over the weekend.

The first came out of Harrisburg, where the State Highway Department announced it will receive bids June 8 for replacement of three bridges at Bartonsville that were destroyed in the August flood.

The other story, originating in Washington, centered on House passage of the biggest road-building bill in history, a proposal calling for a state and federal road program that will cost an estimated $11 1/2 billion dollars in the next 13 years.

The House also approved almost 15 billions in higher taxes on gasoline and other highway items to help pay for the new roads.

Of immediate concern here, of course, is news regarding the long-overdue decision to rebuild the two bridges on Route 611 and one on Route 12 at Bartonsville.

It's unfortunate that work already isn't under way on the two spans on Route 611, one of the most heavily traveled roads in Northeastern Pennsylvania. It will be some time after the bids are received before contracts are awarded and actual construction begins. That means the greatest part of the vacation travel season will pass before the new bridges are completed and thrown open to traffic.

That being the case, we urge local sources who have been pressing for temporary repairs to the old bridges to step up their efforts to obtain quick action so that the least amount of congestion will occur on the present detour around the two washed-out bridges. Traffic bottlenecks are certain to develop during heavy travel days on Route 611, so every attempt should be made before the vacation season begins to prevent them from becoming major ones.

The federal highway program is a long-range plan that without doubt will benefit the Poconos in large measure. A number of superhighways that will funnel more traffic and hence more business, into the region have been projected for quite some time. Final approval of the Eisenhower road bill will hasten the day when those highways become a reality. The next step is up to the Senate.

The bill's main provision is a 40,000-mile system of interstate highways connecting 42 state capitals and 90 per cent of all cities over 50,000 population.

This superhighway system would be built in 13 years at a cost of $27,750,000,000. The federal government would spend 25 billion dollars and states would put up the rest.

Selective Service Statistics Disclose Shocking Story On Health Of Young Men

Some shocking information on the state of health of our youths comes from statistics on rejections by the Army of young men examined for service in the metropolitan area of New York.

Out of every 100 youths examined last year 29 were turned down.

Certainly the mental and physical requirements are not so high that only four-letter athletes can qualify for the armed forces.

The statistics are further sharpened when one considers that our life span is constantly being lengthened.

Of those rejected for military service, 12.6 per cent were turned down because of physical defects; 10.8 per cent for failing the intelligence tests, and 5.6 per cent were refused for psychiatric reasons.

The figures are worth studying, as is the situation they reflect.

We live in a nation where health and educational standards are rated high.

Isn't our smugness high too? Can't we do more to improve a situation that is, at best pretty sad?

Too-Excited Judge Comments Too Quickly About Arrest Of Accused Communist Chief

Federal Judge W. D. Murray of Montana, son of Senator James Murray, got himself quite excited over a news release issued by the FBI and relating to one, John Cyril Hellman, who was stated in the news release to be "one of the leading Communists in Montana and Idaho."

Judge Murray said of this: "I read in the paper a statement issued by J. Edgar Hoover as to certain facts, or at least what he claims to be facts, with reference to this case. I can only say that such statements by the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation are wrong, they are not in accord with the American principle of trial in a court, and I condemn in the strongest terms possible the issuance of statements by police officials or investigating officers with reference to the facts of a case, presenting them to the public in an effort apparently, to try the case outside of court. If this case had been in my division, immediately after I saw such a statement, Mr. Hoover and his Agents would have been called before me to account for such un-American, unfair tactics, and so, I say to you, and to all the public that Mr. Hoover's statement as to facts are not before this court, and the court makes no decision upon anything Mr. Hoover may believe, whether they be true or not. The place to present those facts is in court, and let him be advised of it."

This then is a new doctrine of secrecy, namely, that when an arrest is made, the arresting agency should make no statement that an arrest has been made and for what reasons. According to Judge Murray, arrests should be of the nature of lettres de cachet, in secret.

Hellman was arrested at 7:04 a.m. in Butte, Montana. The announcement of his arrest was made in Washington, D. C. at 9:12 a.m., about eight minutes after the arrest, the difference in time between Washington and Butte being two hours.

Hellman was the 139th person indicted under the Smith Act and each time such an arrest or any other arrest is made by the FBI an announcement of the facts is made, the attitude of the agency and its Director, J. Edgar Hoover being that it is not engaged in secret arrests.

It would appear from Judge Murray's complaint, which was inter-polated in his decision dealing with a motion to reduce bail, that his objection is to matters being discussed outside the courtroom which should be discussed only in the courtroom.

But a statement that an arrest has been made and for what reason, to the press, is normal procedure in the United States and is sanctioned by tradition and public opinion. The FBI release simply stated among other things: "Hellman was arrested on the basis of a Federal warrant issued in Great Falls, Montana, April 4, 1936. He is charged with violation of the membership section of the Smith Act which makes it illegal to be a member of the Communist Party knowing its aim to be the overthrow of the United States Government by force and violence. The penalties for this violation are a fine of not more than $10,000 or imprisonment for not more than ten years, or both."

It is unbelievable that Judge Murray found this objectionable. Would he, Judge Murray, have made a similar complaint if the arrested person were a kidnapper or an extortionist or a counterfeiter or any criminal except a Communist? Yet, Hellman is reported to have said in a speech in 1951 that the Korean conflict was "mass murder on the part of the United States." Without reflecting upon Judge Murray's integrity, it would appear that as long as the Smith Act is the law of the land, procedures concerning arrests under it should be handled like any others.

There is a continuing tendency in this country in favor of secrecy—secrecy about the conduct of government, secrecy about the conduct of foreign relations, secrecy about government documents. What Judge Murray is discussing is secrecy of arrests, a very dangerous procedure, antagonistic to the Constitution, particularly the 4th, 5th, 6th, 8th and 14th Amendments, all of which deal with the rights of persons under the law and all of which are antagonistic to the concept of secrecy in relationship to those rights. It would seem that the Judge talked too quickly.

The Once Over —by H. I. Phillips

A Bad Week For Kids

Millions of ten-year-old kids throughout the land are having it tough all this week as pop and mom greet them from school with, "Where do you expect to get in life? Here you are going on eleven and you don't know how cotton futures closed today or why the annual U. S. Steel meeting is held in Hoboken!" It's all an after-effect of a quiz show on which Leonard Ross, a fabulous moppet, took down $100,000 as a scintillating authority on the stock market. Having a kid around the house who can't tell you that Rhodesian Selective Trust and Niagara Shares Corporation were two stocks admitted to big board listing last year can be humiliating. (We understand a lot of parents are thinking of taking Junior out of grammar school and sending him to the S.E.C.)

Of course there are skeptics who hint darkly that the ten-year-old boy is really twenty and was split two for one for the lower rating. This is ridiculous. The kid simply represents a merger of American Boy (Common) with Juvenile Mental Concentration (Preferred), Premature Wisdom Consolidated and Golden Opportunity Debentures. His knowledge of the financial world is amazing. He will go far. But we can't help wondering about the effect on parents of such a lad. How does his mother feel when he looks up from his homework and asks, "Mommer, I think I'm all straight on Regulations T and U in the trade credit laws, but would you check and tell me if I'm in error?" What's a father's reaction when he asks Junior "Why don't you run out and play baseball with the other kids?" and gets the answer, "I was supposed to pitch, but I've got to study the early incorporation papers of A. T. & T., name the first directors and give the dividend rate between 1911 and 1926?" How does the old man feel when he is raving over the Yankees and Red Sox fight in the presence of a child who is engrossed in the historic battle between Jay Gould and Jim Fisk?

We would like to have a psychiatrist's opinion on the Ross boy. Would he say that he was hit by a bundle of Wall Street

Fairly Spoken By MARGARET LATROBE Among Collectors' Items Termites Appear Unique

The Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D. C., has added 230,000 termites to its collection of Americana. These winged insects carried a gift card from the Department of Agriculture with the pertinent postscript that it took a department scientist 16 years to collect them.

Had we only known of this unusual interest in foundation tanciers, we could have shortened the scientist's labor by a few months and saved a pretty sum on exterminator services. But then, who would have guessed that somebody was collecting termites?

Butterflies maybe, but termites?

Hobbyists of the collector clan go in for unusual items. If collecting is the prime mover of one's leisure time, then it might as well be hard-to-find objects rather than old string and paper sacks. One lady assembles pressed glass. Another, watch fobs from a bygone era. Stamp collecting has never struck me as being in the same boat with match covers, hotel towels or other mundane accrual. Philately is a loftier game, more like an international chess match done by mail. But termites?

Selectivity is the feature which gives fillup to the collecting game. Those who merely fill basements and closets with excess clatter are not collectors of anything but trash. There is some inner compulsion which causes these folk to harbor tin cans, from the smallest anchovy container to a good quart size reminiscent of tomato juice. But it has no relation to true collecting. There is lacking in it the ability to discard.

If the gentleman who neatly acquired 230,000 termites is to be termed a collector, then he must have tossed out a million or so insects whose wing spread, coloring and genus were just short of the mark. One can appreciate the painstaking care that went into those 46 years of search and selection. Nothing but the best for the Smithsonian! (But termites?)

It would appear that apart from the joy of finding another addition to one's collection, there must be some point, some final value in having amassed a sizeable spread of china cads, first editions or postcards of 1890. Without worth singly, there should be some intrinsic value deriving from cream pitchers duly assembled. Otherwise, the pack-rat is poor.

Whether it be foreign coins, uncut emeralds or lithographs; whether it be buttons, ear rings or snuff boxes—collecting is great fun. Or records, old brass cuspidors, quilt pens or crystal prisms. But somehow I wouldn't begin accumulating termites, hoping to bequeath the collection to a certain institution. They got all they can say grace over, as it is.

Try and Stop Me —by Bennet Cerf

"For Brooklyn: Don Newcombe pitching. Roy Campanella catching" is an electrifying announcement that proclaims the appearance of one of the greatest batteries in major league baseball annals. These two men are the nucleus of a championship team in themselves.

It is Campanella who paces his off-field roommate and calls for the various pitches in Neak's repertoire. When Don occasionally shrugs off Roy's signal and delivers a change-up instead of his rinky fastball, Campy usually takes off his mask, strolls out to the mound, and says reproachfully, "What's the idea of giving me the local when I call for the express?" Newcombe apologizes—and the game goes on.

How much does Campanella enjoy his arduous job of catching in the big leagues? He told one reporter, "Everything baseball has done for me is good and nothing is bad. The day they take that Dodger uniform off me, they'll have to tip it off—and when they do, they can bury me."

Robert S. Allen Reports Dulles To Offer Four-Point Plan For Expanding NATO

Washington, April 29 — Four far-reaching proposals are the basis of that world-intriguing concept that Secretary Dulles is advocating to revise and expand the scope of the North Atlantic alliance.

This carefully-guarded four-point plan, which the State Department chief will place before the North Atlantic Council in Paris this week, is as follows:

An economic aid program under which the U. S. and other NATO countries would provide up to $1,000,000,000 a year for under-developed countries in the Middle and Far East.

A similar NATO project to supply atomic power and research reactors to friendly non-Communist countries.

Establish "common European markets and join with the U. S. in taking measures to ensure equilibrium on a non-discriminatory basis of the dollar balance of payments as American military expenditures in Western Europe diminish."

Purpose of this proposal is to take up the economic slack that will result from impending reductions in U. S. military spending in Europe currently around $1,000,000,000 annually.

Greatly increase the number of NATO fellowships, which were initiated last year to strengthen the cultural, social, scientific and political ties of the member nations.

Secretary Dulles' concept, still in tentative form, does not contemplate any new spending by the U. S.

No additional funds will be required from Congress, Dulles' proposals, and any others that may be added to implement his plan to make NATO more than a military alliance of free nations, will be financed by the $4,900,000,000 foreign aid budget which President Eisenhower is seeking from Congress.

Significant Hints — This has been authoritatively indicated by two top administration officials.

In private discussions with the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Under-Secretary of State Herbert Hoover, Jr., and Foreign Aid Administrator John Hollister, expressly cited this new NATO concept as a key reason for the multi-billion dollar budget that is under sharp congressional attack.

Hoover and Hollister carefully sidestepped giving any details of Dulles' secrecy-cloaked project. But the two officials stressed it in relation to the embattled foreign aid budget.

Replying to questions by Representative Harrison A. Williams, Jr., (D., N. J.), Hoover said: "Joining with our NATO allies in developing backward countries is definitely one of the main reasons why we are asking for long-term commitments in this foreign aid budget."

That will give us firm footing to join with other NATO countries in providing economic aid for under-developed countries in the Middle East and Far East."

Administrator Hollister significantly disclosed that the U. S. plans to contribute $1,500,000 under the new budget for operation of the European Productivity Agency, a branch of the Organization for European Economic Cooperation, The OEEC, the European Coal and Steel Community, and other organizations of that kind would be utilized to administer Dulles' four proposals.

"We propose to assist in supporting the work of the European Productivity Agency," Hollister told the Foreign Affairs Committee, "because through this Agency the OEEC countries are working together to adapt and apply the best American and European technical experience and know-how for the development of sounder economies. Doing that means strengthening the economic bases of Western defense, and that is of utmost importance."

Note: Secretary Dulles is studying another far-reaching NATO proposal. Under it the NATO allies would pool their scientific and technical data for the development of new types of aircraft and guided missiles. This project would be part of the military phase of the foreign aid program, and as much as $500,000,000 would be spent by the U. S. for the purchase of latest-type weapons for the NATO powers. The British strongly favor this.

Nothing New — There is nothing special about that fanfare jet transport the Russians recently flew to London—with the gory chief of their dread secret police.

The plane is along the lines of the Air Force's B-52 strategic bomber.

That's the official report given congressional leaders by Pentagon authorities. The information was transmitted by Col. Harry H. Critz, a deputy director in the Defense Department. Following are publishable highlights of his discussion:

"Do we have a plane comparable to this one?" asked Rep. Edna Kelly (D., N. Y.).

"Yes, Boeing is developing one," replied Critz. "It is a jet transport of a commercial type."

"Do we have a comparable bomber?" asked Rep. John M. Vorys (R., O.).

"Yes, our B-52 bomber," said Critz.

"The B-52 bomber is in operation," asked Rep. James Fulton (R., Pa.).

"Yes, indeed," declared Critz, "and more of them are joining the Strategic Air Command all the time. This Soviet transport is virtually the only one they have. We understand there is another one, but that's not certain. The plane that was flown to Britain had 25 painted on it, but that was pure propaganda. They don't have 25 of them. At the most, they have two, and that's questionable."

Thanks To A Solid Organization

By Jim Riley

Although our switch from the sports page to this section of the newspaper has been complete for more than a month, it was our pleasure to return to former haunts and mix with some of the greatest guys in the land.

The occasion was the "blow out" given by the Varsity "E" Club for this reporter last Friday. Why the program was given, I'll never know—but it was one of the finest things that has ever happened to me.

Friday's party was another chapter in a fine relationship with this organization, which I maintain is one of the most progressive in the area.

The Varsity "E" Club has worked as a unit since its formation and has constructed a permanent lighting system at Memorial Stadium, built shower rooms at the same location, purchased a public address system and completed a host of other tasks too numerous to mention.

True, the club has worked hard and accomplished much in its few short years of formation—but its real strength lies in the fact that it is made up of real good guys.

It is this reporter who should have been lauding the club for its fine work, rather than sitting at the head table for the final time.

Although, as stated above, I'm no longer connected with the local sports scene, I still follow it with intense interest.

Friday's program allowed me to recall when many of those seated in the same room had provided many scholastic athletic thrills, while others sincerely recognized the importance of athletics to the youth of the area and were doing all in their power to forward the project.

Jack Kist, Dick Forster, Doug Schoonover, Randy Morris, Joe Perotti, Reg Nauman, Russ "Bucky" LeBar and all the others present on Friday are an inspiration to anyone interested in sports.

Working with and watching these men in action down through the years has been an experience never to be forgotten by me. The manner in which the club members have handled themselves down through the years has made a credit to East Stroudsburg High School, the borough of East Stroudsburg and what's even more important to the organization itself.

Tom Waring and George Graff are two non-East Stroudsburg graduates who have joined forces with the organization in its quest for improvements.

Me? I consider it a privilege to have been associated with the Varsity "E" Club in the past and am hopeful that I can be a member of and assist the organization in future years.

Mrs. Michael Anthony Filingo

(Apollo)

Wedding At St. Rock's

Pen Argyl — Miss Rose Marie Gigliatte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gigliatte, of Pen Argyl and Michael Anthony Filingo, son of Mrs. Josephine Filingo of Bangor and Faust Filingo of Roseto, were married on April 21, at 10 a.m. Mass at St. Rock's Catholic Church, West Bangor.

Rev. James Gallagher performed the ceremony, and the bride was given in marriage by her father. Her dress was of pure silk and lace with a crown of orange blossoms and a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

Mary Gazzubio was maid of honor, and Rose Marie Mariano and Vicki Guzzo were bridesmaids. They all wore gowns of aqua crystal and carried bouquets of daisy pompons, the matron of honors' yellow and the bridesmaids' rose. Amelia Le Donne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Le Donne, was junior bridesmaid and also wore aqua crystal, with a bouquet of daisy pompons.

John J. Gigliotti of Philadelphia was best man and Maurice Capazzolo, Roseto and Samuel Galote, Bangor were ushers. Virginia Williams was organist and Pauline Aulio and the church choir sang.

After a reception at the Blue Valley Farm Show Building, Mr. and Mrs. Filingo left for two weeks in Florida. They will make their home at 339 N. Fifth St., Bangor. The bride, a graduate of Pen Argyl in 1951 is employed at Golden Blouse Co. The bridegroom, Bangor High, 1950, is employed by Maurice Garments.

Just Between Us

—by Bobby Westbrook

Everybody who's been complaining about such a late Spring was sort of taken a-back by the sudden switch of jumping feet-first into mid-Summer. Not that they were complaining—just bewildered. Storm windows still up, screens in the attic, summer clothes all packed away, and their gardening muscles all unlimbered.

They did the best they could. The ones caught down town in warm clothing, stripped down as far as decent and then rolled sleeves, unbuttoned collars, and took off the choker necklace. At home, they opened doors, propped up storm windows and let the bugs crawl in.

Outdoors, you had the feeling of being caught in one of these science-fiction worlds where special gamma neutrons or whatever set the vegetation to growing so fast that it is strangling all signs of human habitation.

Or maybe it was more like an elapsed-time photograph of flowers—a whole forsythia bush bursting into blazing color as amazing in its way as Moses' burning bush; dandelions popping out like those little Chinese fire-crackers on the lawn and weeds sprouting in the rose garden faster than you could hoe.

Well, maybe it just seemed that that way. But there's nothing imaginary about the blistered palms, the aching muscles, the sunburned noses the would-be gardeners were sporting yesterday.

Just the same we looked a lot healthier and stepped a lot lighter, unburdened by coats, even if we hadn't got all the creases ironed out of that summer suit, or the gloves didn't quite hide that long scratch from the rosebushes.

Werkheiser Represents Firm Here

By K. N. Werkheiser
Local Agent For Knapp Bros. Shoe Manufacturing Co.
FAR TOO FEW men and women understand the importance of properly fitted shoes to the general health and contentment.

Never having to give very much thought to anatomy, they do not realize that if their feet are even slightly impaired, through wearing wrong size shoes, the evil thus created may spread through the nervous system to other parts of the body.

Believing that correct fit is even more essential than style or wear (which are of course highly important) Knapp shoes are built over the best-shaped lasts produced—best for the combined qualities of newest style and proper fit.

I spare no pains to insure that every purchaser of Knapp shoes shall obtain exactly the length and width best suited to his or her feet. For the past few years, the American Legion Magazine has employed the Roper Statistical organization of New York to make a survey in order to determine the popularity of various products and the standings of the manufacturers producing them.

1,000 Manufacturers
This survey covered a wide section of the eastern part of the country and included approximately 1,000 shoe manufacturers.

In 1954 Knapp shoes were in seventh place in popularity and 18th place in the number of shoes produced. In 1955 they gained one place in each, which put them in sixth place in popularity and 17th place in number of shoes produced among other leading names in the shoe industry.

It is as true today as it was over 35 years ago when the Knapp Brothers established this business. Today, Knapp "Aerotreds," with the original air-cushioned construction, are the greatest shoe values in America.

Compare Knapp's with other shoes—even those costing dollars more. Compare them in quality, compare their styling, their value. Here you will learn why Knapp Brothers Shoe Manufacturing Company is recognized as America's foremost direct-to-wearer shoe company, the undisputed leader in the field... serving millions of satisfied customers from coast to coast.

Eagle-Picher And Flexalum Products Sold By DeRenzis

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of feature by-line articles to be presented on The Daily Record Business Review Page. Each is submitted by one of the businesses represented here. Stories will discuss new products and services on the market and ways in which local businesses can serve you, the customer, more fully.
21 N. Sixth St.

By Joseph & Albert DeRenzis of the Jos. G. DeRenzis & Son firm THIS BEING the first chance to speak publicly through the newspaper we would like to extend our sincere thanks to the local consumers who have indeed taken us into their confidence by doing business with us.

It is quite a task, forming a business these days, and that is perhaps the main reason we have decided to handle the Eagle-Picher line in aluminum combination storm enclosures.

This company has been in business since 1843, and are a vital supplier of lead, zinc, rubber and chemicals to some of the country's largest manufacturers. Aluminum storm enclosures are the only thing the Eagle-Picher Co. retails on the market. The rest of their products are sold to manufacturers to become a part of such important every day items as: your automobile battery, your hearing aid, wrappings on the bread you eat, and tires for your car. This, then, is our ultimate goal. To give the local people a product that they can own with pride, and feel assured, that this product will last, and their investment has been more than worthwhile.

When it comes to awnings, we feel the Hunter-Douglas Corp., manufacturers of the famous Flexalum Venetian Blind, is as reliable a concern as we could find. These awnings are light but "strong as an ox, and the finish is two coats of baked enamel.

We can supply you with four styles: The Panorama, Horizon, Meridian, or Aurora. Made of durable aluminum, and channeled so as to let the hot air out, but still be weatherproof, these Flexalum Awnings are good on your home for years and years.

To end briefly, our song has been over and over again: "Don't take our word as to the quality of merchandise we handle. Ask those who have them." For after all, the true test of any man-made product is the test the consumer gives it.

This is the answer. And this then, is our ultimate goal: To give the people a product representing quality, at a price that is a fair price, that in years to come they will then agree that the initial investment has paid off many times over.

Naturally, installation is an extremely important phase of our business. We do not "contract" our work out, but do it ourselves, with our own men and equipment, thereby giving our customers top-

Hope Key To Success Of Cancer Battle

no "complications", a great deal of annoyed irritability at small things, but nothing important. Then, a year after it was "finished", she began to notice a slight vaginal bleeding.

Marion put off seeing the doctor for nearly a month. Somehow she had the feeling that this must be part of the menopause, some delayed reaction she hadn't heard about before. Finally, in desperation, she called the doctor's house. He told her to come over in an hour.

From this point on—for a while—Marion's story roughly resembles those of other "hope cases". The doctor recommended complete examination at General Hospital. After talking it over with her husband, she agreed.

Tests taken of tissue from the uterus showed Marion had a "well-localized, but fairly advanced cancer." Hospital surgeons decided to try curing the woman with radium treatments first. Although the radium reduced the danger from the cancer considerably, it became apparent that the one certain way to stop the growth was to operate. This was done. Through surgery, the woman's uterus was removed. Her health immediately began to improve. Complete and accurate follow-up examinations during the past five years indicate, definitely, that Marion has been cured.

But Marion faced her hardest and most nerve-racking fight in her own backyard. From the time she had entered the hospital ward, the rumors had been going around. Although she knew little about what had been said, Marion had sensed that something was wrong in the light stinging of pity she heard in her friends' voices.

Loaded
The grapevine was loaded with pity—some of it genuine. Poor Marion, the voices said. Isn't it awful. She'll never be the same. You can't tell me. Those operations don't mean a thing. All they do is build you up a little.

When Marion first heard the whispers she went to bed for two days, nearly paralyzed with a kind of fright she had never known. Then the doctor came to see her. Together they plotted a course of action. The doctor convinced her the best thing to do was try to educate the rest of the women in the community.

This is what Marion tried to do. With the help of her doctor and information passed along to them by the Monroe County unit of the American Cancer Society, they have been highly successful.

The immense value of Marion's attitude toward her own cancer cure could not be over-emphasized. Certainly if more and more persons who are saved from cancer death would face a responsibility to others, and to themselves, the fight to educate the public would be made easier.

And, when you come right down to it, this education is one of the greatest functions any cancer victim can perform—other than keeping himself in continued good health.

Without education fear will always set up its own brick wall against the hope every cancer patient must have.

Today that hope is his for the taking. He has to face it and accept it without fear.

Tropical disease long delayed the white settlement of Africa.

Mount Carmel Driver Faces Charges Following Accident

MILFORD — A Mount Carmel motorist has been charged with driving under the influence of liquor as the result of an accident on Temporary Route 209, three miles south of here at 1 a.m., Saturday.

State Police said Frank Kramer, Jr., 25, was treated by a local doctor for lacerations of the mouth and broken teeth, after his 1954 coupe was completely demolished in the crash.

Kramer was driving north when his car plowed into a concrete abutment, then skidded about 75 yards before crashing into a barricade where a bridge was washed out by the flood, troopers said.

State Police reported Kramer was released in $500 to await further action on the motor vehicle complaint.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your future. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 4 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Blind Golfers Hold Drills At Mt. Manor

MARSHALLS CREEK — Six members of the Middle Atlantic Blind Golfers Association concluded three-day drills for future links tournament play at the Mountain Manor Golf Course, near here today.

The workouts, the first of five on tap for the organization, was under the supervision of coaches from the Philadelphia area.

Included among the six linksmen was one woman, Dorothy Anderson, of Philadelphia.

The sightless golfers drilled mostly on driving and putting. Heading the list of MABGA linksmen were two members of the unit's governing board. They were Benjamin Pearlman, of Philadelphia; and Dr. S. B. Van Wageningen, of Philadelphia.

Warriors Capture Fourth, Rally To Sink Kutztown 12-8

EAST Stroudsburg State Teachers College broke a 8-8 deadlock with a four-run rally in the seventh inning to defeat Kutztown STC 12-8 on the Normal Hill diamond Saturday.

It was the fourth victory in five outings for the Warriors of George Ockershausen and also avenged the lone setback handed them earlier in the season by Kutztown.

While the ESSTC bats resounded for 12 hits, it was the fleet-footed base-running of Ockershausen's crew that pulled out the victory. No less than 15 stolen bases were pilfered by local runners.

Hartman Winner

Butch Hartman, in relief of Jack Smith and Dick George, got credit for the mound win, Larry Gorrenti, the second of two Kutztown hurlers, was tagged with the loss.

The big blow of the game was Jerry's Keyser's two-run homer in the third inning which gave the Warriors a 5-2 lead.

Run-producing doubles by Dave Smith, Jack Newell and a triple by Geets DiTorre, plus singles by Walt Jaubinski pushed over the Warriors tallies.

Game On Ice

ESSTC put the game on ice in the seventh on two walks, Dave Smith's single and DiTorre's three-bagger.

'Brigadoon' Slated For Weekend

THE MODERN musical fantasy, "Brigadoon", will be given a local production May 4 and 5 — this Friday and Saturday — by the Community Chorus.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. both nights. The production will be seen at State Teachers College auditorium, under direction of Dr. Earl Willhoite. Tickets are now on sale by Kiwanis Club and chorus members.

Among those to be seen in leading roles is William Gorton, who plays "Jeff Douglas", a "Wise-cracking realist". Jeff is one of the two American hunters who stumble across a Scottish town which comes back to life only every 100 years.

Gorton has been with the Community Chorus and the Stroudsburg Methodist Choir the past five years. Prior to coming to Stroudsburg he sang with the Trinity Methodist Church Choir in Staten Island, N. Y. He is employed by Ronson Corporation of Pennsylvania in its East Stroudsburg offices.

Area Native

Miss Doris Salathe will be seen as "Meg Brockie" in the production. Meg is a girl "with an overabundance of initiative", the plot synopsis says. A native of this area, Miss Salathe sings with Grace Lutheran Church choir, has been with the Community Chorus for four years and is a member of the Shawnee Singers. She has been a member of the Stroudsburg High School Girls Chorus and the Ensemble and the Penn State girls chorus.

The part of "Frank", a bartender in the musical play, will be played by Tom Holland. Holland is a member of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church choir and has been with the Community Chorus the past year.

He has toured and done radio work with the Camp Glee Club of Gettysburg for three years. In Philadelphia he sang with the Elmwood Mixed Chorus for two years.

A resident of East Stroudsburg for two years, Holland is employed at Signal Depot in Tobyhanna.
